THANKS
The editors of Elements would like to thank the following individuals for their generous support of and assistance with this issue:
SUSAN DUNN, Administrative Assistant, Center for Centers
DONALD HAFNER, Vice Provost for Undergraduate Studies
MARY KREINDEL, Account Executive, Dynagraf
CECILIA MCCLAY, Associate Buyer, Procurement Services
We would also like to thank Boston College for the financial support that makes this issue possible.

QUESTIONS & CONTRIBUTIONS
If you have any questions or would like to contribute an article for the next issue, you may contact the journal at elements@bc.edu. The next deadline for submission is Friday, November 5, 2010.

COVER
Stairwell of the Musee Horta in Brussels © Lonely Planet/SuperStock

PERIODICITY
Elements is published semiannually during the fall and spring semesters.

The information provided by contributors is not independently verified by Elements.
The materials herein represent the personal opinions of the individual authors and do not necessarily represent the views of Elements or the Boston College community.

Elements, The Undergraduate Research Journal of Boston College
Volume 6, Issue 2, Fall 2010
Boston College, 140 Commonwealth Avenue, Service Building 103
Chestnut Hill, MA 02467
Printing: Dynagraf Inc., 5 Dan Road, Canton, MA 02021
Copyright © 2010 by the Trustees of Boston College

ELEMENTS STAFF
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
BRIAN VARIAN

MANAGING EDITOR
R. BRIAN TRACZ

DEPUTY EDITOR
JAIME CROWLEY

HUMANITIES
ALI MCDONALD, Senior Editor
ERIN E. EIGHAN, Senior Editrix Emerita
BRENDAN KELLY, Editor
VINODH MECHERY, Editor
DAN SOLOGUREN, Editor

NATURAL SCIENCES
ANNE KORNAHRENS, Senior Editor
ADITYA ASHOK, Editor

SOCIAL SCIENCES
CHRIS SHERIDAN, Senior Editor
SARAH COLLIER, Editor
TEJA GANTA, Editor
ANDREINA YANES, Editor
ZACH ZIMMERMANN, Editor

LAYOUT
JAIME CROWLEY, Senior Editor
CHRIS SHERIDAN, Editor
R. BRIAN TRACZ, Layout Designer

WEB DESIGN
DAN SOLOGUREN, Senior Editor
VINODH MECHERY, Editor

FACULTY ADVISOR
ELIZABETH CHADWICK
EDITOR’S NOTE

In “Victor Horta’s Vision: Art Nouveau and the Fusion of Function and Form,” Catherine Swofford describes the political import of Victor Horta’s architecture, writing:

An enlightened bourgeois class sought out a new artistic style to reflect their progressive political views and to separate themselves from the conservative elite. As is the goal of the client, when a pedestrian walks down a Belgian street and notices one of Horta’s profoundly different art nouveau houses, he presumes the owner to be . . . forward-thinking.

Just as an elaborate art nouveau townhouse signaled a forward-thinking occupant, so does an academic research journal mark, quite palpably, a forward-thinking university. Indeed, this tenth issue of Elements continues to signal the academic vibrancy of Boston College—premised upon intellectual curiosity and manifest throughout these pages.

Victor Horta paid meticulous attention to every single detail of his townhouses, straight down to the “door-knobs, air vents, railings, stained glass and cupboards.” For Horta, even the smallest features contributed to the overall appearance of the residence, rendering its architecture masterful and its symbolism complete. In emulating Horta, the staff of Elements has implemented several stylistic changes in this issue. Though small, these changes represent ongoing attempts to showcase better the academic research of Boston College students.

Another highlight of the Fall 2010 issue is the first ever foreign-language article to appear in Elements. “Mentira y honor: Los temas del teatro español en el Siglo de Oro,” written by Vlad Georgescu, reflects not only the widening scope of research being done at Boston College, but also an alternative approach to expressing this research.

With seven truly original articles, I am confident that this issue of Elements indicates well a “forward-thinking” university. It is my hope that you will peruse it in that same spirit!

Sincerely,

Brian Varian

BRIAN VARIAN

Editor-in-chief